RIDO WEEK 3rd edition

During the week of May 11–15, 2026, the third edition of the University's "Rido Week" will take place. This informational and training initiative is aimed at all students, with the goal of promoting informed and active participation in completing the teaching evaluation questionnaire.

To this end, in coordination with Prof. Claudio De Pasquale representative of the CPDS and in agreement with the lecturers present in class, meetings with students from the different years of our degree program have been scheduled. These meetings aim to present the purpose of teaching evaluation, highlight the importance of students' active participation in improving quality, and share the results of the previous survey with reference to the overall data of the master's degree program.

These meetings will take place according to the following schedule:

Master's Degree Program in Mediterranean Food Science and Technology:

- 1st year – May 13, 2026, 8-11
- 2nd year – May 12, 2026, 14-17

During the same week, all lecturers teaching second-semester courses are invited to dedicate the first few minutes of one of their classes to the in-class completion of the teaching evaluation questionnaire related to their course.
