Italian and Cookery Course

The Italian Language School of the University of Palermo in collaboration with Città del Gusto - Gambero Rosso (visit the website) organises the course "Italian and Cookery", a dynamic itinerary through Italian language and Sicilian cooking traditions. Italian food traditions have always been widely appreciated all over the world.

ADDRESSEES

Intermediate and advanced students.

WHERE

The activities will take place in the afternoons in professionally equipped kitchens at Palazzo Branciforte, a prestigious city museum and location of Città del Gusto (City of Taste).

ACTIVITIES

Thanks to the practical lessons with professional chefs from the cookery school Gambero Rosso in Rome, students will prepare typical Sicilian specialities using fresh local products and immediately afterwards they will taste their own creations with their course mates.

IMPORTANT: the course will not take place without a minimum of 7 participants. If the course does not take place due to the low number of participants, the School will inform the students via the email address they have indicated in the enrolment form.

WHEN

This 18-hours course has a theoretical structure (6 hours for traditional Sicilian cookery with a teacher of Italian Language and Culture) combined with an extensive application (12 hours for practical workshops in the kitchen with a professional chef and a teacher of Italian)

DATES: 01/07 – 12/08; 15/07 – 26/08.

FEES: 350 euros. Reductions will be granted to those students booking more than one course.
